LiteScape named North American Enterprise Communications Entrepreneurial Company of the Year for 2007

Redwood Shores, CA—December 20, 2006—LiteScape Technologies, Inc. (www.litescape.com), a leading provider of unified communication solutions that integrate business applications with IP telephony, and Frost & Sullivan announced today that LiteScape has received Frost & Sullivan's 2007 Entrepreneurial Company of the Year Award in the North American Enterprise Communications market. This Award is presented each year to a company in recognition of its ability to both identify an emerging market in the area of enterprise communications and deliver innovative products and solutions that successfully meet the challenges of this rapidly evolving market.

"We are honored to receive this award that validates our product and marketing strategy," said Farzad Naimi, the chairman, CEO and a co-founder at LiteScape. "As a smart, aggressive company, it is our mission to develop robust applications that will enhance the investment an organization has made in their IP infrastructure to help them automate processes and increase productivity."

"After primary research with top manufacturers, channel partners and end-users in the industry, we ran companies through an extensive evaluation process, considering such elements as strategic alliances, expected time to market, and the senior management team," said Krithi Rao, Industry Analyst of Frost & Sullivan. "LiteScape has demonstrated superior entrepreneurial ability in its industry, and we expect the company to play a very essential role in driving the adoption of IPT solutions that truly unify an organization's communications." Frost & Sullivan, a leading global growth consulting company headquartered in the US, has been in business for more than 45 years.

This award caps off a great year for LiteScape full of significant milestones and stellar growth in the areas of new customers and revenue. "Our partnerships with Cisco, Avaya, WebEx, Microsoft, AT&T and others have begun paying off in great dividends," said Rod Hamlin, LiteScape's executive vice president of sales and marketing. "However, our rapid growth has not distracted us from our daily obsession: our customers' total satisfaction. Our customers are our best spokespersons and salespeople in the market, and they are the mark against which we want to be judged."

LiteScape offers a full line of solutions for the retail, government, financial, healthcare, and education verticals, which are delivered quickly with proven ROI. These solutions enable secure, real-time collaboration comprised of voice, data, and image streams that can be coordinated and simultaneously delivered to various IP devices.
